SERIOUS BLOCKADE GRIPS NEW YORK

Brooklyn Only Borough Not Affected By Surface Car Strike

THREATEN GENERAL TIEUP

Elevated and Subway Men May Join Strike and Locomotive Engineers May Walk Out

"JITNEYS" DO GOOD BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Surface car traffic ceased in the boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond at 8 o'clock tonight. At that hour the city was in the grip of the most serious transit blockade in its history. Brooklyn was the only borough not affected by the strike of motormen and conductors, only a fraction of the normal number of cars was in operation in the borough of Queens.

The menace of a general strike which would include the elevated and subway lines was growing more threateningly hourly. William B. Fitzgerald, general organizer, declared that by the middle of next week every employee of the interborough would be a member of the union.

William D. Mahon, president of the amalgamated association of street and electrical employees, declared that a delegation of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers representing men working on railroads running into the city had asked for a conference tomorrow afternoon with union officials.

It was announced at headquarters that this probably meant the members of the Brotherhood would walk out if sympathy with the Carmen if it were found necessary and thus tie up the steam and electrical roads running into New York.

At 8 o'clock tonight orders had been issued by every street railway in Manhattan and the Bronx and on Staten Island, (Richmond) to discontinue service for the night. An hour later not a surface car wheel was moving in the three boroughs. The management of the Manhattan and Bronx lines said they would attempt to resume service tomorrow morning, but no effort will be made until Monday to operate cars on Staten Island.

The number of passengers carried daily on these lines is estimated at 2,500,000.

Within an hour after the halting of traffic, steady streams of "jitney" vehicles were flowing thru Broadway, Fifth avenue and other streets running north and south, as well as thru the cross town thoroughfares. Hundreds of automobiles, taxi-cabs and autotruck owners did a thriving business.

For cross-town rides the regulation charge was five cents, while longer trips uptown and downtown cost from five to twenty cents. Fifth avenue buses and sightseeing cars were crowded to capacity.

Throngs of half-day excursionists, returning from nearby beaches and pleasure resorts waited vainly for surface cars and then philosophically descended into the nearest subway station or climbed the stairs to the elevated platforms. This traffic added to the usual Saturday night throngs on the overhead and underground trains, caused serious congestion.

Extra trains were operated and additional platform guards and ticket sellers were requisitioned. On many of the large autotrucks fares were collected by striking conductors some of whom wore their railway uniforms. Others were in charge of taxicabs and hacks. They explained they had pooled their savings and bought second hand conveyances determined to benefit as much as possible from the strike. Most of the automobiles were without licenses but the police made no effort to interfere with their traffic.

With the suspension of car traffic the danger of serious disorders became less menacing, but the police did not relax their vigilance. At 9 o'clock several automobile trucks loaded with revolver ammunition left police headquarters. Boxes of cartridges were left at every station house in Manhattan and the Bronx. Each patrolman will be provided with twenty rounds.

The most serious demonstration of the day occurred tonight when police reserves charged a crowd of strike sympathizers, said to have numbered at least two thousand, who were bombarding a street car with stones and attempting to rescue a prisoner from a patrolman. Women and children hurled missiles from tenement house roofs. Police reserves arrived and cleared the streets and roofs.

There was sporadic rioting at several points during the day and many arrests were made, but there were few casualties.

RECOMMEND LOWERING OF INCOME TAX EXEMPTION

DEMOCRATS OF SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE ORDER ACTION

Would Reduce Figures From $3,000 To $2,000 For Single Persons and From $4,000 To $3,000 For Those With Families.

Washington, Aug. 5—Reduction of the income tax exemption from $3,000 to $2,000 for single persons and from $4,000 to $3,000 for those with families was ordered recommended to the senate tonight by Democratic members of the finance committee who are revising the house revenue bill. The change is proposed in an amendment which would impose on the additional $1,000 a normal tax of one percent and two percent on incomes over $3,000 and over $4,000.

After announcement of the result some Democratic senators said that the decision was tentative and might be overturned when the amendment was submitted to the full membership of the committee next week.

Those who favored the amendment emphasized the grave necessity for additional revenue. This amendment is the second change in the income tax proposed by Senate Democrats who last night voted to increase the surtax on incomes in excess of $2,000,000 from 10 to 13 percent. It is estimated that the surtax change would bring in $10,000,000 additional revenue and the latest change about $6,000,000.

LEWIS DISCUSSES MEXICO AS POLITICAL ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Mexico as a political issue in the national campaign was discussed in the senate today by Senator Lewis of Illinois, assailing the Republican party and Mr. Hughes, its presidential candidate for attacking the administration without regard to facts, equity or justice, and Senator Fall of New Mexico replying.

Senator Lewis denounced Republican leaders for their assaults upon President Wilson's Mexican policy characterizing them as "reasonable."

Responsibility for the death of American soldiers at Carrizal placed at the door of the Republican party charging that "not till the captains of the Republican party shot at the president of the United States did the Mexican outlaws shoot at the soldiers of the American president."

Senator Fall described Senator Lewis' attack as a "most remarkable harrangue" and declared that Mexico would be a ringing issue in the campaign and that thousands of refugees from Mexico would be asking why the administration did not live up to its platform pledges.

JOFFRE CONFIDENT OF ALLIED VICTORY

French Generalissimo Believes Turning Point is Successfully Passed

TALKS FREELY AND FULLY

Asserts the Five Months Resistance of French at Verdun Has Turned the Scale

UNITED ACTION IS TELLING

Headquarters of the General Staff in France, Aug. 5—General Joseph Joffre, generalissimo of the French army, today received the Associated Press correspondent here and talked freely and fully on current phases of the war. He expressed the view that the turning point of the great conflict had now been successfully passed and with it the united action of the entente allies they were pressing forward to the certain collapse of German efforts and to an assured victory.

General Joffre is in supreme authority over the French, British and Belgian forces on the western front and the French, British and Serbian armies of half a million men around Saloniki and is senior commander in the united action by which the allies are conducting simultaneous campaigns in the Russian, Italian, French and Balkan theaters as part of one economic whole. It is this recent co-ordination of the command on the many fronts that has permitted General Joffre to give full scope to his military talent which probably has been exercised over more men of the allied nations than ever has fallen to one military commander.

General Joffre was in his private office at headquarters when the party of American correspondents arrived. He already had received reports of fighting last night and early today on the Somme front at Verdun and along the Italian and Russian fronts. General Pelletier, his chief of staff and a number of staff officers were about, but except for this there was little outward evidence of warfare.

"I want to express to you our feelings toward the American people," said General Joffre. "A feeling of deep friendship has always existed between France and America, and it is particularly opportune now, after France has been fighting for two years for the ideals dear to both countries, that this old friendship should be renewed and strengthened."

"Although the fighting is getting more bitter, every one recognizes in the complete unity of the allies what the final outcome is going to be. The unity on all fronts is a great characteristic of the campaign now going on and the effect is now apparent of the constant pressure on all sides by the allies, who have had time to form their plans, thanks to the sacrifices which the French nation has made at Verdun. We must also pay full homage to the splendid part our allies are taking in the increasing efforts along the Somme and on other fronts."

"The Russian effort has now succeeded in organizing and putting forward larger and larger forces of men, drawn from their apparently inexhaustible sources of human material and at the same time fully arming these masses. The splendid results of their efforts are showing what they have accomplished along the entire eastern front."

"Once more the chance has fallen to England to show the vast extent of her resources both in men and material, and the extent of her effort is shown in what has been accomplished on the Somme front."

"The Italians have had a much harder task and a more limited sphere of action and you know how admirably they have fulfilled their part of this common action. As for the reorganized Serbian army, it is only just beginning to take its full part in the war."

General Joffre turned his attention to the German side of the campaign.

"If we consider the condition of our enemy," General Joffre continued, "we know for certain that they are drawing on their last reserves."

Their game has been to transfer their reserves from one point to another and from one front to another, with the united action of the allies on all our fronts our enemy finds such a course impossible and will find it increasingly so in the future. It is not for me to say how long the struggle is going to last, but that

ROBINS ENLISTS TO SUPPORT HUGHES

FORMER PROMINENT PROGRESSIVE JOINS REPUBLICAN RANKS

Refers to Hughes as Conspicuous Example of Unselfish Service in Politics—Republican Party Now Represents Nationalism as Opposed to Democratic Sectionalism

Chicago, Aug. 5—Raymond Robins, chairman of the Progressive National convention and candidate of the Illinois progressives for United States senator in 1914, announced today that he would support Charles Evans Hughes, Republican nominee for president; declared that it was "manifest" that the Progressive party was dead, and asserted that "wise and sincere Progressives" should join with Republicans in the "common struggle for social and industrial justice in city, state and nation."

In the statement which was addressed to the Progressives of the country, Mr. Robins said:

Hughes Conspicuous Figure

"We Progressives stand at the cross roads. American social, industrial and political life has broken down under the old individualistic control. A new national mind and conscience developing social unity, industrial standardization, efficient political honesty; from a self controlled democracy—this is the goal of our generation in 'American life. I believe in the character and courage of the nominee of the Republican party. He is the most conspicuous example in our history of the possibilities that American politics may hold for success in able and unselfish public service. For myself I gladly enlist with the great majority of the Progressives of the nation under the leadership of Charles Evans Hughes."

"The supreme need in American political life is leadership supported by a voting rank and file that will organize and maintain an adequate social industrial and military preparedness together with a comprehensive foreign policy" the statement said.

"Can these imperative national needs be worked out by a states rights democratic party that plans a state dominated militia with its members of shiftless incompetence spoils politics and organized snobbery in a national defense force at a time of world peril?

Progressives Should not Hesitate

"Comprehending our national necessities how can Progressives hesitate long to choose between the party of nationalism and the party of sectionalism? Should not wise and sincere Progressives go en masse into the Republican primaries and fighting shoulder to shoulder with Progressive Republicans help and be helped in our common struggle for social and industrial justice in city state and nation. If this is generally done we can continue to work together and bring back a chastened Republican party to its ancient faith in human rights and national integrity."

Reviewing the party history the statement said:

"In the 1914 and 1916 primaries the progressive voters of 1912 deliberately and in overwhelming numbers abandoned the progressive party. The refusal of the progressive national committee to favor a third ticket candidacy did no more to make final the judgment entered by the Progressive voters themselves. When the Progressive convention had adjourned and the entire situation was considered—it was manifest that the end which the voters had had in view had come—that the progressive party was dead."

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 5—Negro women from all over the United States are gathering in Baltimore to take part in the tenth biennial convention of Colored Women. The convention will have its formal opening sessions tomorrow and the sessions will continue throughout the greater part of the coming week.

Mrs. Booker T. Washington, widow of the founder of Tuskegee Institute, will preside.

real matters little.

"We know the crash is coming. We have already passed the turning point. The five months resistance of our troops at Verdun has turned the scale. But still do not imagine that there is a complete weakening on the German effort on the western front; two thirds of the best fighting forces that Germany can put in the field—that is one hundred and twenty two divisions of their best troops against the French and British line on the west and fifty German divisions operating with the Austrian forces along the Russian front."

Even Mr. Morgan Erred.

It is said the worthless stocks and bonds found in the estate of the late J. P. Morgan by the appraisers had a par value of about $8,000,000. yet Mr. Morgan had as sound a judgment in regard to securities as anyone, probably. In all of the great estates appraised in New York in recent years, worthless securities have been found amounting at par to several millions of dollars. The richest and shrewdest investors occasionally get loaded up with 'punk,' sometimes thru the solicitations of friends and acquaintances or again thru the lure of the gambler's chance for great profits.

Morris Herald: Colonel Lowden, in spite of "hectoring," in spite of misrepresentation, is making no attacks upon any individual. He is telling the people what he thinks of the burdens of present conditions, and that if they will nominate and elect him, he will devote four years of his life to their service and to their benefit. If the crowds who hear him are an indication, he has the endorsement of the voters and their confidence. Those who know him, know his word is good.

A Vital Difference

One political writer has pointed out a vital difference between the speeches of President Wilson and Mr. Hughes. The president is often able to charm the ear with his polished sentences and well turned rhetoric. Usually he arrests attention but it is not often his words carry conviction. The language of Mr. Hughes is clear cut and carefully chosen, and is not as ornate as that of the president, but it has that most important quality of carrying conviction because Mr. Hughes' arguments are so logical and so evidently sincere. To carry conviction is manifestly the purpose of argument and in this Mr. Hughes' utterances have shown him unsurpassed.

Wider Streets Will Help

One of the most practical suggestions made recently in the city council is that of widening several of the streets in the business district which approach the public square. On several of these streets the sidewalks are wider than necessary and the street pavements so narrow that traffic is frequently blocked. It is really surprising that more collisions do not occur on these side streets in these days of continued automobile travel.

It is a common practice to leave vehicles on these side streets adjacent to the pavements and when four or five are thus placed it taxes careful driving to avoid accidents

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASONTHE DANGER CAR

The auto as a grim destroyer, is difficult to beat. Just yesterday I killed a lawyer, while scorching up the street. When first I got my car I uttered a vow that I'd go slow: "This speed-mania," I muttered, "is what brings death and woe." But I got going fast and faster, like many another scout; and now there's always a disaster whenever I go out. When home I come from some brief journey my wife says, "Who was slain?"

I say, "Three clerks and an attorney lie dead upon the plain." I go kerwhopping every morning, o'er valley, weald and wold, all rules and regulations scorning, I knock the records cold. A cloud of dust, a roar and rattle, and I'm beyond your ken as deadly as a modern battle, a menace to all men. The rurals cops would like to pinch me, but can't get close enough; some day a bunch of men will lynch me, and that will be the stuff. And while for such a stunt they hanker, I'm scorching, far and near, today I crumpled up a barker and maimed an auctioneer.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

Enjoy the band concert in comfort. Take one of Cherry's cozy rigs.

With retopping and widening proposed for these busy streets the council has an improvement program which will be of general benefit to the public. If several alleys will be included in the program the results will be still more beneficial.

Signs for the Uninformed

To those accustomed to the local traffic regulations, the island lights on the square are adequate signals to keep to the right and thus accidents are avoided. However to the uninformed, to the tourists passing thru Jacksonville, to the stranger here, these posts are apt to mean little on first sight. "Keep to the right" or some similar wording would help. Yesterday a roadster approached the square from the west. Just as the driver reached the square he veered sharply to the north, to the left of the island light. A glance at the license tag showed the car to be from Missouri. The driver of the machine was merely uninformed and hailed from a state where they have to be shown. Signs on the post would lessen the danger of collision.

More Space for Autos

In Springfield at some points in the business district they are making sidewalks narrower in order to provide a place for parking automobiles. Fortunately the paved square space in Jacksonville is wider than in Springfield and it is not necessary to reduce sidewalk space to accommodate the automobiles. Nevertheless as street railway tracks are now arranged, none too much, parking space is afforded for the autos, and next year if the number of cars increases in the same proportion that it has in the past year the city officials will be confronted by another problem.

In other days a city feed lot or a place where farmers might tie their horses without expense was considered a valuable feature from the merchant's standpoint, encouraging farmers to come to Jacksonville. Now conditions have changed and it is mainly parking space for automobiles that is required. The coming of the auto has so greatly increased the area from which Jacksonville draws trade that parking space is a matter of growing importance. Fortunately Jacksonville has a central park and when the time comes a portion of the park can be concreted and connector with the square paving for the exclusive use of the automobiles. This plan would not interfere with the street railway company's tracks and would make all sides of the park available for automobile drivers.

Robins Lauds Hughes Record.

The announcement that Raymond Robins, four years ago chairman of the Progressive national convention will support Hughes for the presidency was doubtless not at all pleasing to Democratic leaders. Years ago Mr. Robins was aligned with the Democratic party and left that organization to take a prominent part in the councils of the Progressive party. In all quarters he is recognized as a man of the highest ideals and of great ability. His record gives proof of his sincere desire to serve the people and his support of Mr. Hughes will not be an insignificant factor in the campaign.

In announcing his intentions Mr. Robins refers to the Republican candidate as the best possible example of making self interest secondary to the public welfare.

It is very evident that he considers Mr. Hughes' political history indicates clearly his unwavering desire to serve the people. Aside from the fine tribute paid to the candidate, Mr. Robins in his statement calls attention to the narrow policy of the Democratic party by comparison with the Republican party and he is pleased to refer to Republican nationalism as compared with Democratic sectionalism.

We will admit that Mr. Robins, like a great majority of idealists, and reformers, has occasion to quite often change his view point, but he represents a class of men who have accomplished great things in bettering political conditions and whose good works have not been concluded.

THE OUT WEST.

With the passing of the beloved poet, James Whitcomb Riley, comes the query, upon whom will his mantle fall?

At 621 American Bank Building, Los Angeles, Cal., is published a new magazine, "The Out West," devoted especially to the spirit of the West. Under the able management of its editor L. H. Martin and the business manager, Cruse Carrel, it is semi-monthly, most interesting numbers. In it, the manager, a young man not yet twenty-five years old, a grandson of our former citizen, Dr. H. F. Carrel and Mr. James Cruse of our city, has published several poems, surprisingly near in spirit, thought and expression to the poems of our own James Whitcomb Riley. A few of these we publish for the benefit of our readers.

Hot Weather Suggestions

(By a Jacksonville Home Keeper.)

What sensations of pleasure and pride must come to the man, who, after a hard day's work down town where the sun's glare is strongest and the heat most intense, returns home to find his wife waiting for him on the porch with the look on her face that tells him she has found time to rest after all her duties were well done. For these days are real tests of the homemaker's efficiency. She must utilize all her past training and experience so that she may do everything the best and easiest way and conserve strength to withstand the depression that comes with the long hot days.

The past month has proven or not, as the case may be, the capabilities of every wife and mother in Jacksonville for the nights and days have been hot indeed and dust has been present. The housewife is learning to keep her home cleaner and cooler by closing shutters, or closing windows and pulling shades during the day. She is finding out that house cleaning on any great scale in this weather is nigh unto sinning. She is putting her house in order and preparing things to eat as soon as possible in the morning and she is particular about the kind and quality of things she does prepare. She will not take any risks now.

The care and feeding of children is of the greatest concern to the mother at all times but the present epidemic of infantile paralysis in different sections of the country and the great number of deaths due to excessive heat has added much pains taking in every way. We are warned on every hand to be careful of milk. Jacksonville needs certified milk for babies very badly but we do not have as serious a problem as do larger cities because we can get milk we know is good and every mother knows or should know how to pasteurize it. It will not be out of place to repeat the warning so often heard and read these days—Be sure of the orange juice. And be sure you know the apple sauce and peaches have been thoroughly cooked. Put a small spoonful of sugar over the cereal and lessen the amount of cereal. Do not neglect the mouth wash morning and evening—the cooling sponge bath. And remember the cooler and quieter the babies are kept the better and happier they will be. To know that his child is having proper care and attention will lessen the cares of the father, who more than shares the responsibilities of homemaking.

Below are given some recipes especially good for hot weather menus. They have been tested and are also easily prepared.

Corn Meal Muffins.
Mix three quarters of a cup full of corn meal with the same amount of flour, in which sift three tablespoons of baking powder, 1 tablespoonful of sugar, and half a tablespoonful of salt. Beat one egg, add a cupful of sweet milk and two teaspoonsful of melted butter. Stir in the corn meal and flour mixture as lightly as possible and bake in muffin molds. These muffins will add much to the noonday lunch.

Whole Wheat Muffins.
One egg well beaten, butter size of an egg, two and one-half tablespoons of granulated sugar, one cup sweet milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups whole wheat flour (sifted), two teaspoonsful baking powder. Mix sugar and butter,

Potato Croquettes.
Beat an egg into the mashed potato left from dinner, mold into a roll in beaten egg and fine cracker crumbs. Fry in hot lard.

Cheese Salad.
One half pound cream cheese, one hard boiled egg, one-half cup nuts. Gently chop the eggs and nuts; serve with mayonnaise and garnish with pimientos or green peppers.

Two Egg Cake.
One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two eggs, one-half teaspoonful vanilla, one-half cup sweet milk, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder. This cake may be spread with jelly.

Lemon Ice.
Juice of three lemons, three cups of sugar, mix and let stand one hour. Stir in one quart of milk, very slowly. Freeze at once.

Ginger Ale.
Ginger ale is a delicious summer drink with lemon and orange juice added to suit taste, and sprigs of 1907, in a pavilion erected on a raft moored in the middle of a stream at Tilsit, a town in East Prussia. It was this conference which ended the war between France on the one hand and Prussia and Russia on the other, France taking half Prussia's territory.

I was at Frankfort, in 1871, that the treaty which ended the Franco-Prussian War was signed. Seven years later the Russo-Turkish war ended with the treaty of San Stefano, which was followed by the conference at Berlin, in which other Powers had a deciding voice. Of later date was the treaty of Portsmouth, N. H., ending the war between Japan and Russia.

Three years ago there was an historic scene when at St. James' Palace representatives of Turkey and the Balkan League, which included Bulgaria, Greece, Serbia, and Montenegro, signed a treaty of peace which ended the thirty-two weeks' war between Turkey and the allied States.

The last time the Powers met to settle amicably a division of territory was at the conference of Algeciras, a little town on the Bay of Gibraltar, in February, 1906. Germany had resented France's proposals in regard to her scheme for the "peaceful penetration" of Morocco, but at the conference in question matters were amicably arranged, France being left a fairly free hand.

HOUSE MARKING TIME
Washington, Aug. 4.—The house marking time while the senate completes its legislative program listened to campaign speeches today. Representatives Rodenburg, of Illinois, and Humphrey of Washington, attacked the administration, criticizing in particular the president's Mexican policy. Representatives Heflin of Alabama and Konop of Wisconsin replied.

Twenty years later England signed another treaty in Paris whereby she acknowledged the independence of the United States. Paris was also the scene of the treaty which, in 1856, marked the conclusion of the Crimean war.

A remarkable war palaver was the meeting of Napoleon I and Emperor Alexander of Russia on June 25,

THE ORANGE

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Lucia stopped at Tony's fruit stand on her way home and bought a dozen oranges. It was raining, and besides two other packages she had an umbrella to manage against a strong wind.

Gradually the bag softened with the dampness and clung like a plaster to the round, yellow spheres within. A tiny crack appeared, widened, lengthened, and the whole dozen oranges catapulted into the street as though shot out of a machine gun.

Mike Kubellk, carter for Sellem & Hatch, was hauling a wagonload of oranges from the Bay street market to a West end branch. Crossing South avenue, a rear wheel caught in a car track and came off. And immediately there was an avalanche of oranges in all directions.

Now when Lucia's bag broke, she, too, was crossing South avenue, and, moreover, it was at the same instant that Mike lost a wheel. So she looked down to see, not a dozen, but hundreds of dozens of oranges roll about her feet.

Already half a dozen urchins had gathered around and were filling jacket pockets as fast as they could. Mike, with fist, whip and many cussings, was doing the best he could to defend his treasure, but it was futile.

Lucia, seeing no chance of reviving her bag into a semblance of use, decided to use her umbrella as a receptacle and closed it. Then she stooped and started deliberately to count a dozen oranges into its silk recesses.

"Hi there!" Mike came up belligerently flourishing his weapon. "You putta dem down."

Mike reached for the umbrella just as a man stepped between them and put out a restraining hand.

"Let the lady alone," he said quietly. At the tone of authority Mike stepped back without another word and his whip fell.

"Go and attend to those boys and I'll get a policeman to help you," the newcomer said, and to Lucia, "Have you got all your property? If so, I'll help you out of this."

"I think I have. It was hard counting with that man shaking his fist under my nose," she laughed. "The oranges are all here in my umbrella."

"But it's raining hard. You'll get soaked."

"I've no other place to put them."

"What's the matter with these deep pockets in my coat?"

"But you mustn't go home with me."

I live—oh, ever so far."

"So much the better. There, and there, and there, and there! I guess I've got them all," raising the umbrella.

At the door the oranges had to be transferred. "Won't you come in?" asked Lucia. "I'll get a dish for them." So the man went in and they emptied the fruit into a black-and-white china bowl.

"Thirteen!" he exclaimed. "By Jove, we've cheated the dago."

The man divided the odd orange carefully in two parts and gave her half.

"In movies," he remarked, "they tear cards, or smash shells and each takes a piece. A sort of kismet, you know, for each of the two contracting parties. Now why not an orange skin See!"—fitting two pieces together. "You take one and I'll take the other. To keep as long as we live!" solemnly.

When her gallant defender had departed, it suddenly occurred to Lucia that she did not even know his name.

A week passed. Busy days for Lucia, as all days were, but not too busy for many thoughts of her recent acquaintance and his identity. But she was to have a shock. One evening she opened the paper, and there on the first page was the picture of the man!

Below it she read, "One of the suspects arrested in connection with the Alison jewel case. The man, who gives his name as John Emerson, was seen coming out of the alley in the rear of the residence at 6:30 Thursday evening, and he could not explain his presence there, although it was a dozen blocks away from his lodgings and place of business."

Tuesday! That was the night he had taken her home! And 6:30 was about the time he had left her. The alley in question was between her street and the Allisons'. He had probably been taking a short cut home! But why had he not told them his errand?

Lucia thought over all the details, and the orange skin popped into her head. She would send it to him and he would not refuse to see her, she knew.

An hour later, among grim surroundings, Lucia was shown into a little white room, and John Emerson came in a moment later.

"Why didn't you tell them where you were last Tuesday?" was her breathless greeting. "This is terrible."

"I couldn't without bringing your name into it and I thought I'd rather be convicted than have your name breathed here. You shouldn't have come—unless there is something I can do for you."

"There is! Tell them all about it."

"I won't."

"Then I will!"

The district attorney heard the story. Mike was sent for and added his share to the testimony. Then John Emerson was allowed to depart.

And that was only the beginning of the end, for John and Lucia were married the other day, (Copyright, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

WHEAT MARKET TOUCHES NEW HIGH RECORD PRICES FOR 1916
TRADING IN STOCKS BARELY AMOUNTS TO 50,000 SHARES

Canadian Crop Damage Appears to be on Increase and Reports That European Buying of Breadstuffs is on Big Scale.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Notwithstanding that week-end sales to realize profits were heavy today, the wheat market touched new high record prices for 1916, and altho unsettled at the close was 1/4% to 1/2% above yesterday's finish. Canadian crop damage appeared to be on the increase and there were reports that European buying of breadstuffs was on a big scale.

Other samples too showed gains—corn 1% to 3¢, oats 1 to 3¢ and provisions 5 to 27%.

Assertions that all wheat for fifty miles north of Regina, Sask., was more or less infected with blackrust led to an excited rush of buying as soon as trading began.

Corn advanced to the highest prices of the season. Buying was based chiefly on the continuance of drought and heat.

Oats rose to a new high level for 1916. Threshing returns remained unfavorable.

Provisions were firmer in sympathy with grain and hogs.

MAKING ONE'S WILL

AUTHORITY GIVES SOME ADVICE ON THE SUBJECT.

List of "Do's" and "Don'ts" That Should Be Observed by the One Who Is Framing a Testament——Have Best Legal Advice.

In the American Magazine Charles S. Cutting, who is one of America's foremost authorities on probate law, and for many years was judge of the probate court in Chicago, gives the following directions for making a safe will that can't be broken:

"Do's—1. Before you consult anybody, decide how you propose to leave your property.

"2. If the disposition to be made is simple, any ordinary skilled person can draw your will.

"3. If your will is complicated, including trusts, life estates, etc., employ the most skilled draftsman within your acquaintance.

"4. Do as your legal adviser tells you as to matters concerning which there may be doubt.

"5. Be sure to comply with all formalities required by the statute, especially the following:

"6. Subscribe your name to the will in the presence of witnesses.

"7. Declare it to be your will in their presence.

"8. Have at least two witnesses sign in your presence.

"9. If you sign by mark, or for any reason are unable to write your name, have at least three witnesses to the fact of your signing by mark or that you requested some other person to write your name.

"10. Ask people who have long known you and who have no doubt as to your sanity to be witnesses to your will.

"11. Place your will in the custody of some perfectly responsible person or corporation, or in some receptacle, as a safety deposit vault, which cannot be opened after your death without the presence of public officials.

"12. Remember that any provision you make for your wife is an offer to her to purchase from her her statutory rights, and that if she chooses she may reject your offer and take advantage of her rights under the statute."

"Don'ts—1. Don't put off making a will until you are ill and your disinterested relatives will say that your mind is affected.

"Don't believe that making your will will hasten your death.

"3. In states where the statutes give a widow dower only in her husband's real estate, don't get the idea that she will be the owner in fee of one-third of his realty.

"4. Don't attempt to tie up your estate for a long period, providing for ultimate distribution in the distant future. Courts are very apt to find ways to construe such a will contrary to your intention.

"5. Don't let your will be the vehicle of conveying to posterity your hatred or dislike of individuals.

"6. If you are wealthy and have provided well for your family, don't forget the obligation you owe to the community in which you have acquired your fortune.

"7. Don't attempt to change your will, after it is written and witnessed, by drawing lines across certain portions of it and writing in other directions. Such attempts will fail.

"8. Don't make a nonresident of your state executor of your will. Many states will not permit him to act.

"9. Don't have the man you selected as executor sign as a witness. It may disqualify him.

"10. Don't allow any legatee or devisee in your will to sign as a witness. If he does, he may lose his legacy or devise.

"11. If you wish to add a codicil to your will, don't fail to have the codicil refer unmistakably to the will and attach the codicil thereto physically.

"12. Don't hesitate to change your will by codicil or otherwise whenever you see fit."

Population's Flow and Ebb.

When we speak of the waves of immigration rolling into this country the backwash is frequently forgotten. In 1915 the number of arrivals was 424,244, while the number who returned to the countries of their nativity was 384,174, or 88 per cent. Last year may be regarded as abnormal owing to a general condition of war; but, taking the five-year period 1909-13, of a total of 7,454,239 immigrants, 3,210,958, or 43 per cent, returned.

In fact, there is a regular ebb and flow in the movement of population, depending upon the rise, remarks the Philadelphia Record, and decline in the demand for labor. A considerable proportion of the immigrants are birds of passage, and there are many among them who have come and gone two or three times. Only one-half the arrivals become permanent residents.

Seek Remedy From Sea.

To save the life of a patient in St. Winifred's hospital Dr. Winslow Anderson of San Francisco, accompanied by 14 doctors and nurses, went out to sea in a Crowley launch for 36 gallons of the purest of pure sea water.

The ailment from which the patient is suffering will give way only to a treatment in which pure salt water from the sea forms the chief element.

The party carried twelve three-gallon jugs with heavy lead sinkers, by means of which the water was lifted from a depth of 30 fathoms. The launch went nearly to the Farallon islands.

FROM AN ANTI-SUFFRAGE VIEW POINT.

Franklin, Ill., Aug. 5.

Dear Friends:

This morning I have sorted out several letters which have all asked the same question: "Are you a suffragette?" I laugh softly to myself as I read these letters over, for the writers one and all, seem to imagine that of course I am.

My dear friends, I want to tell you that I am not. One writer says "if you are not, tell us why not" and this I am unable to do. I will own that I am in sympathy with them at times, then there are times when I feel for them nothing but disgust. I am afraid that you will have to consider me as being "on the fence." Of course I have tried to decide this question in my own mind, but as yet I have reached no definite conclusion. There are few things that seem to me as argument in their favor. But there are many things that seem to argue against them. If by casting my vote I could wipe intemperance from the land, I would walk to the polls as brave as an Indian on the warpath, but generally speaking I shudder as I think of going to the polls knowing that I should have to meet intemperance on the way, and to work my way thru it. Besides this there is the old, old argument that woman's place is in the home. I believe in this argument and I will tell you why. In looking around me I can see neglected homes on every hand—I can see neglected children, and I can think of no more pitiful sight than a neglected child, their sad little faces appeal to me in a more convincing way than any lecture on woman's suffrage I have ever heard. The streets of our large cities today are filled with these neglected little ones. The asylums are full, the almshouses are full; and sad to relate the penitentiaries and the prisons are being filled with this very class—young people whose early years were sadly neglected.

I know of mothers today who are spending much time in thinking of and reading about this movement which seems to have stirred the whole wide world, and while they are doing this, their babies are roving the streets, meeting with all kinds of companions, learning all kinds of evil, and forming habits which mean ruin and unutterable woe for the future years.

Now in fancy I can see a countless number of minds lifted in protest against these words, and I can hear a babel of voices raised denouncing me as one unworthy the name of woman, but somehow this thought does not trouble me. I see a chance to make a plea for the neglected child, and I mean to make it. I also mean to add that a little child should be dearer to a woman's heart than a poodle-dog, whether the child be her own or belongs to some one else. Do you know, when I first began to hear about suffragettes I always pictured them in my mind as women who went about with dogs in their arms, while the cold stars were shining down on the houseless, homeless, shivering, freezing children of the streets. This picture always rose before me, and I think it has had much to do in prejudicing my mind against them. Ladies before you vote get rid of the poodle dog. One of these letters I received on this subject was from a gentleman, and he, it seems, has been influenced by the same mental picture. He writes that what the country needs most is more home-makers, and I feel that he is right.

"4. Don't attempt to tie up your estate for a long period, providing for ultimate distribution in the distant future. Courts are very apt to find ways to construe such a will contrary to your intention.

"5. Don't let your will be the vehicle of conveying to posterity your hatred or dislike of individuals.

"6. If you are wealthy and have provided well for your family, don't forget the obligation you owe to the community in which you have acquired your fortune.

"7. Don't attempt to change your will, after it is written and witnessed, by drawing lines across certain portions of it and writing in other directions. Such attempts will fail.

"8. Don't make a nonresident of your state executor of your will. Many states will not permit him to act.

"9. Don't have the man you selected as executor sign as a witness. It may disqualify him.

"10. Don't allow any legatee or devisee in your will to sign as a witness. If he does, he may lose his legacy or devise.

"11. If you wish to add a codicil to your will, don't fail to have the codicil refer unmistakably to the will and attach the codicil thereto physically.

"12. Don't hesitate to change your will by codicil or otherwise whenever you see fit."

There should be more thought and more care given to the home life; more true, deep, unselfish love for the home circle. We want homes made better, purer, brighter. The woman who gives all her thought to the home life, does more—great deal more—toward reclaiming the erring husband and the wayward son than she could ever do by going up on the platform and crying down the evils of the day.

My gentleman friend will surely smile as he reads these words and he will think I am surely on his side, in a way I am; but wait a minute.

I am thinking now of the evils that have corrupted public life—of the greed and graft and thought of gain that has corrupted the whole wide world, and I feel now as I always do when I think of these things, that it is little wonder that woman has risen in protest against these things, that she wants to try her hand at bettering these shameful conditions, for there are and ever have been, noble, self-sacrificing women who have given to the world brave sons and charming daughters, and it is these women who claim my sympathy today, for the children they have sent out in the world have been surrounded with temptations of every kind, temptations that were the inventions of satan, and which have been made more effective by the aid of man. Saloons have been opened to welcome them, dens of vice have shown their alluring pictures and won them to enter—hell itself has opened to receive them, and man—man who thinks himself capable of conducting the affairs of this old world without woman "butting in," allows these accursed conditions to exist. A noble woman trains a son and gives him to the world, and the world makes of that son a beast; she gives to the world a sweet innocent daughter, and the world destroys that daughter, body and soul, whilst the mother was caring for her children in their innocent childhood she dreamed bright dreams for their future. She had never a thought of the evil they were to meet with, of the temptations they would be powerless to resist. She rocked them in their

AND NOW—THE PAIGE FAIRFIELD "SIX-46" HAS ESTABLISHED A NEW WORLD'S RECORD FOR MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

On July 6th, a Paige "Fairfield" stock car shattered every existing record for mountain climbing.

By one of the most amazing exhibitions of endurance ever recorded, this car battered its way six miles up the rugged, snow-clad side of Mount Hood, near Portland, Oregon, and reached a point more than three quarters of a mile beyond the timber line.

Only the man who is familiar with the dizzy height of Mount Hood can fully appreciate just what this achievement means—but suffice it to say that no motor car made in this country or abroad has ever come within three miles of this astounding Paige record. For years, the ascent of Mount Hood has been a favorite testing "stunt" for adventurous automobileists. Cars of all makes and all horse powers have done their level best to work their way up the side of this grim old mountain. But, up to July 6th, no car had ever succeeded in reaching a higher point than midway between Government Camp and the timber line.

Then, came the memorable trip of the Paige.

This car—a stock model in every respect—set out from Portland with seven passengers on Saturday, June 10th. In two days it had negotiated the grueling climb to Government Camp, and was awarded the Pridemore Silver Cup for being the first car to reach the camp this season.

Here, surely, was glory enough for any one car—but, not so the Paige. Despite dire warnings from the mountaineers and almost unanimous predictions of disaster, the nose of that stout-hearted Paige was again pointed toward the clouds and the most thrilling climb in automobile history had commenced.

It is impossible in this limited space to give an adequate description of the terrific struggle which ensued. But the photographs on this page tell a story that will quicken the pulse of every man who has a drop of sportsman's blood in his veins.

Most of the time, the Paige was solidly sheathed in ice, and it was necessary to use every ounce of power in the motor to break through the huge snow drifts which blocked the way. And still this, mind you, while the gyrometer registered grades as high as 50 per cent.

Even the mildest flight of imagination will tell you what would have happened if the motor had stalled—if the clutch had slipped—if the car had "laid down" for a minute or two while crossing a crevasse 2000 feet in depth.

But the "Fairfield" didn't "lay down." It went on and on—up and up—until the timber line had been left far behind. And, when further traction was an absolute impossibility, the "Fairfield" stood at an elevation of 9500 feet above sea level.

Never in the course of your whole experience, will you have occasion to demand so much of a motor car. This ascent of Mount Hood was, we frankly admit, a "stunt" pure and simple—a merciless trial of endurance—an unprecedented test of stamina.

But the "Fairfield" went through like the thoroughbred that it is—without a single mechanical adjustment or replacement of any kind. So, with absolute confidence, we challenge the entire motor car world to produce an automobile—no matter what the price may be—to equal this achievement of the Paige.

The mountain is still there. Very shortly a bronze tablet will mark the spot which that "Fairfield" reached—9500 feet above the sea. Is there another make of car in the United States that can stand up under such a grueling test?

cradles and sang to them sweet lullabies, she tucked them into their little white coats at night, and kneeling beside them, she breathed holy prayers above them. After this was all done, she took her sewing and sat down beside them, and there, with her mouth full of pins and her brain full of hopeful thoughts, she sewed far into the night, sewed for the darlings that were to be tempted and ruined after they had passed from beyond her influence and her loving care. Man might have changed all this, but he would not. Man might change all this even now, but he will not.

Woman has finally come to realize that these conditions are in a fair way to grow worse instead of better and in her righteous indignation, she has risen, taken the pins from her mouth, and she is going to make herself heard if nothing more, and, gentlemen, you have got to listen whether you want to or not, and the things she is going to say will cut deep.

She is going to show you that while you were sneering at her for caring for poodle-dogs instead of babies you were going about with a bottle of rum in your pocket, and a goodly share of the accused stuff in your stomach, from the effects of which your brain was in no condition to judge her or to know whether she was doing her duty or not. She is going to show you that in this condition you went home to those babies you have been raving about, and in your drunken delirium abused them shamefully. She is going to prove to you mistaken man, that unless something or somebody "butts in" on the world's affairs, the world is in a fair way to be given over to anarchy and ruin, what do you think about it? Now, my dear friends, I ask this question in good faith, and I sincerely hope that some one will write and tell me.

WOMAN AVOIDS OPERATION

Medicine Which Made Surgeon's Work Unnecessary.

Astoria, N. Y.—"For two years I was feeling ill and took all kinds of tonics. I had chills, my head would ache, I was always tired. Could not walk straight because of the pain in my back and I had pains in my stomach. I went to a doctor and he said I must go under an operation, but I did not go. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told my husband about it. I said 'I know nothing will help me but I will try this.' I found myself improving from the very first bottle, and in two weeks time I was able to sit down and eat a hearty breakfast with my husband, which I had not done for two years. I am now in the best of health and did not have the operation."—Mrs. JOHN A. KOENIG, 502 Flushing Avenue, Astoria, N. Y.

Every one dreads the surgeon's knife and the operating table. Sometimes nothing else will do; but many times doctors say they are necessary when they are not. Letter after letter comes to the Pinkham Laboratory, telling how operations were advised and were not performed; or, if performed, did no good, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used and good health followed.

MINOR LEAGUES IN HARD LINES.

The majority of the minor leagues are nearing the end of their season, the closing date for most of the little circuits being set for Labor Day. As the season has been one of the "bloomer" variety there are likely to be a few tears shed by the "bush magnates" when the final curtain is rung down.

A few of the minor league clubs will be able to show a profit and some of the others may manage to break even, but it is safe to predict that a large majority will close up shop owing themselves money. Unusually bad weather conditions and lack of public interest have combined to put the skids under the pastime.

Two years ago the now defunct Federal league started the minors down the toboggan by grabbing the "bush" stars and neglecting the formality of slipping a little change in return. When the Feds died last winter the minors breathed a sigh of relief and started forthwith to prepare for what they figured would be a soft and soothing 1916 season. Nothing doing. In nearly all sections J. Pluvius has been, on the job early and late, with the result that the season now nearing its close must be added to the two previous disastrous years, making three five in a row.

The only bright spots in the picture of gloom are found among the few top-liners in the large minor leagues, the American association, and the International, Western, Southern and Pacific Coast leagues.

Pennant contenders in these leagues will come through right side up. But outside the class AA and Class A leagues, minor league baseball at a profit is likely to be unknown this year. The one remaining chance for the little clubs to gather some coin is the unloading of some of their players to clubs of higher classification, either through sale or draft.

The rough going has naturally resulted in many breakdowns and changes in circuits among the minors this season.

The Atlantic League, a newcomer, was forced to "blow" after only a few weeks of pastimining, while the Ohio State League, an old organization, has been shot to pieces. Burlington has dropped out of the Central association and the Virginia league has been obliged to can Hopewell because it takes more than optimism to run a ball team.

Albany's flop in the South Atlantic league also carried down Montgomery, which city it was found necessary to drop in order to balance the circuit. In the New York State league Troy proved to be a hit and the team, bat bag and valise, was transferred to Harrisburg. The Northern league will endeavor to worry through the remainder of the season minus the Fort William and Virginia teams.

Two small circuits, the Dixie and the Georgia-Alabama leagues, seem to have hit upon the right idea. Both outfit framed short schedules to close the third week in July. Both came through and finished the season, even if they didn't clean up a bundle of goof.

The closing dates scheduled by the different leagues, big and little, are as follows:

American league October 4.
National league October 5.
American association October 1.
International association Sept. 17.
Pacific Coast league October 29.
Western league . . . September 24.
Southern league . . . September 9.

SOME FARM THEMES.

The Automobile in Hay-Making. On the G. L. Burgess farm in Platt county, Illinois, the auto is substituted for a horse in elevating hay into the barn now with eminent success. The rope is attached to the hind axle and a plang of chunk is laid where the auto should stop to prevent breaking the rope or tearing out the carrier supports, which the superior strength of the machine might easily do. The largest forkfuls are handled and may be held at any point in the ascent if desired, a feat which but few horses can do. The auto backs up over the rope and the driver may remain in his or her seat. A woman or child can run the auto as well as anyone and thus save a hand for the mow or the field.—The Farmers' Review, Chicago.

BENEFITS FROM SHEARING LAMBS.

A lot of hot weather is yet ahead and it will usually profit to shear the lambs that are much affected by the heat, even in the fall days. A lamb and without heavy fleece is a different animal. The one is loggy and lethargic, the other is ready for play and feed the moment it cools off. Shorn ram lambs work much better when put in the flock early and if enough are used they will ensure a heavy lamb crop more certainly as a rule than older rams.

To inexperienced ram buyers the shorn lambs may look a little small and their faults of conformation are revealed, but they will be heavier by a scale test than the unshorn lambs and will yield nearly as much wool in the spring; indeed, in some cases they will outshear them on account of size and general thrift.

It is easier to give the shorn ewe lambs a good culling out in order to retain the best. Perhaps the shepherd knows his sheep through and through, but the average farmer does not, nor some who pose as shepherds. The shearing is an annual revelation to many flockmasters. —Breeders Gazette.

DEMONSTRATION OF PLOWING INCREASES WHEAT YIELD.

Farm and Fireside, the farming paper published at Springfield, Ohio, says:

"Wheat yields have been increased from 10 to 30 bushels to the acre in nearly every state in the winter-wheat belt by deep and early plowing and disk ing from time to time before planting—a thorough preparation of the seed bed. Wheat that followed corn or potatoes or some other crop requiring a thorough cultivation has yielded best in a majority of cases in spring-wheat regions."

"The early and special cultivation of the acres and the preparation of the seed bed produces conditions favorable in midsummer for the formation of plant food, and the conservation of moisture. It also destroys insect pests such as Hessian fly, which is in the flax seed at that time. The cultivation prevents the evaporation of moisture and gives the bacterial and chemical agencies a chance to work. This results in more valuable plant food. The amount of available plant food in the soil in the fall is a good index of the yield the following year.

"Where the rainfall is only sufficient to grow a crop of wheat every other year, summer fallow accomplishes the same thing that deep and early plowing and disk ing does in the districts of greater rain-fall. Summer fallow is letting a field lie idle and keeping the surface of the soil cultivated enough to prevent evaporation of moisture and to assist in the production of available plant-food."

THE CORN SITUATION.

(From Wallace's Farmer)
The normal average rainfall of the seven corn belt states—Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio—for the month of July, is 4.5 inches. In 1894, the rainfall for the month of July in these corn belt states was 1.5 inches; in 1901, it was 2 inches; in 1913, it was 2.8 inches; in 1914, it was 2.5 inches; in 1915, it was 2.2 inches. For the first twenty-eight days of July, 1916, the rainfall has been 1.7 inches. An interesting thing about July, 1916, is that the first ten days and the last ten days have been the driest in fifteen years.

The average yield of corn in 1894, in these seven corn belt states, was 18.3 bushels per acre; in 1901, 17.8 bushels; in 1913, 25.8 bushels; in 1914, 26.2 bushels. The normal average yield has been right around 31 bushels.

It will be seen from the foregoing that we are having a serious drought in the corn belt. In the southwest, corn has already suffered very considerably, and at the date of this writing (July 29th), reports of damage are coming in from all of the corn belt states west of the Mississippi river, and there is no rain in sight on the weather map. If we should have another week without a good rain, and if we should have a continuance of the high temperatures, the damage will be very serious. Everything depends upon the weather for the next week or ten days. The farmer's work is done. How well it has been done will have a very marked influence on the yield of his particular fields. But from now on, the crop is in the hands of the God of the weather.

The farmer can await the outcome with a considerable degree of philosophy. The drouth is general over the corn belt. If we are to have a short crop, the higher price should compensate for it.

The situation is reflected in the market prices for December corn. During the past week it has sold for almost two cents higher than any previous price for December corn during the month of July, for more than twenty years.

DEMOCRATS OUT TO BEAT SLEMP.

Bristol, Va., Aug. 5.—The Democrats are preparing to make a hard drive this fall to capture the famous Ninth congressional district of Virginia, which has been Republican ever since the war. At the Democratic convention about to be held the strongest available candidate will be picked to make the race against C. Bascom Slemp, the Republican incumbent and the only Republican member of Virginia's congressional delegation. The fact that Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president, had her girlhood home in this district is counted upon by the Democrats to aid them in their fight for victory. They are hoping that pride will take the district from the Republicans. The latter will hold their convention at the end of this month and will renominate Congressman Slemp, who apparently is to have no opposition within the ranks of his own party. Mr. Slemp has represented the district since 1907, in which year he was chosen to fill the vacancy created by the death of his father, who had represented the district for many years.

WILL PREACH AT CHAPIN.

Rev. Ivan W. Agee, pastor of the Union Avenue church of Littleton who is spending his vacation in this community will preach at the Christian church of Chapin Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock.

William Killam returned yesterday from a four weeks eastern trip. He visited Boston, New York City, Atlantic City and Niagara Falls.

Hay-Box Cookery.

easier or cheaper than to place the meat or soup in the hay-box and find it all ready to eat on returning home, and the method will appeal to all busy mothers and housewives, both as regards cost, efficiency and simplicity.

There is no risk of fire, though, of course, care must be taken to see that there are no live sparks sticking to the bottom of the pans when they are put in the hay.

Ricci Tutti Frutti.

One pint whipped cream, one-half cupful white sugar, one-half pint cold boiled rice, one-half dozen figs, one-quarter package gelatin, one tablespoonful vanilla, one tablespoonful preserved ginger.

Soak gelatin in little cold water for ten minutes. Heat one-quarter cupful of the cream—not whipped—with the sugar and when hot add gelatin and stir until dissolved. When cold add the rice, flavoring, figs, ginger and cream and mold. The ginger may be omitted if desired.

Ginger Cream.

Beat the yolks of three eggs, add pint of milk, two tablespoonsfuls from preserved ginger and one cupful sugar. Cook all together until thick. Strain, add one tablespoonful gelatin that has been dissolved in a little cold milk, the whites of three eggs beaten stiff, and beat all together until it begins to thicken, then add four ounces of preserved ginger, cut in very small pieces. Put in a mold to cool and serve with whipped cream.

Browned Potatoes.

Mash two cupfuls of cold boiled potatoes, add three tablespoonsfuls of milk, four tablespoonsfuls of grated cheese, one-half minced onion, one-half level teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Melt one heaping teaspoonful of butter in a frying pan. Add the potatoes, cover and brown. Then turn and brown on the other side. Serve with tomato sauce.

For Old Pewter Ware.

To clean pewter, make a stiff paste of powdered pumice stone and soap, and add a bit of sweet oil. Wash the pewter with warm soapsuds, then rub it all over with the paste moistened with water. Let it stand overnight, then rub off with a soft cloth. Polish with any good silver polish.—Mother's Magazine.

COOKING NOW EASY

HAY-BOX AN INDISPENSABLE KITCHEN ADJUNCT.

Its Use Helps Greatly to Offset the Burdens of Dear Fuel and Expensive Foodstuffs—Operation a Simple Matter.

Hay-box cookery is not a new idea by any means, but recently it has had quite a revival, and in these times of dear fuel and expensive foodstuffs it is a boon and a blessing to the worried housewife. They are easily made at home and cost next to nothing.

Purchase from the grocer a nice-sized box, say 28 inches long and 22 inches wide and deep; if the box has a hinged lid, so much the better. This style of box can usually be had for a few cents.

Line the box well with old newspapers; use several thicknesses, as it is important to stop up any crevice. In the center of the box place a piece of wood that will divide it into two. Fill each portion with hay; pack the hay in tightly, then in the center of each portion make a hollow or nest ready to receive the vessel containing food or liquid.

When the vessels are in the box, cover the tops of them well over with hay, or, if preferred, a rough cover out of sacking can be made; into this pack some hay, sew up, and a cushion is ready to place on the cooking vessels; the lid is then closed down over all and slow cooking will proceed for as long as the box is kept closed. The box will last for years, and is no expense at all, save now and again renewing the supply of hay.

Just the ordinary cooking utensils are needed, such as jam jars, casseroles, and stewing jars.

All food put in the hay-box must be at boiling point when put in—if a continued slow cooking is desired. When cooking porridge, stews, etc., bring to the boil on the fire or stove; let it boil for five minutes, then put the vessel containing the food straight in the haybox, cover and close the lid. The food can then be left thus slowly cooking for hours without any attention, and it will not spoil. The cooking is excellent for porridge; it can be put in overnight, and in the morning will be found beautifully cooked and piping hot.

"A cursory glance will show that the union of the two Republican parties of 1912 would make Connecticut Republican by 38,000, Illinois by 200,000, Indiana by 35,000, Iowa by 120,000, Kansas by 50,000, Massachusetts by 120,000, New Jersey by 50,000, New York by 100,000, and Ohio by 100,000.

"It must also be considered that Wilson had many thousands of ardent supporters in 1912 who will not vote for him today. And it must also be remembered that in the party disaffection a great mass of Republicans did not vote at all.

"Turning to the election of November, 1914, three important political facts are evident:

"First: The Republicans carried upon national issues states that would give a clear majority in the Electoral College and elect a Republican president.

"Second: The Democratic majority in the present House is only the result of the Progressive vote in certain districts of the country, and the Democrats are really a minority party in the House of Representatives.

"Third: Two-thirds of the Progressive vote of 1912 has not only ceased to support third party candidates, but has returned to the support of Republican principles and candidates.

"Twenty-three states were carried by Republicans with a total of 28 electoral votes. This is a majority of twenty-two over the 266 necessary for a choice. In three states there was a division on national issues. Thus, in Oregon, South Dakota, and Nevada Democratic senators were elected while Republican Congressional Delegations were chosen. At this election 230 Democratic members of the lower House of Congress were chosen. In thirty-nine of the Congressional districts, however, the Progressive vote was larger than the Democratic plurality so that, had it not been for the Progressive vote, the Democratic membership in the present House would be only 191, with 218 necessary for a majority. In four states, California, Colorado, Indiana and Oregon, the Progressive vote elected four Democratic senators.

"I think it is clearly evident what because of the Progressive vote of 1912. The approximate figures showed a Republican gain of 2,489,

CHARLES B. WARREN MAKES INTERESTING POLITICAL ESTIMATES

Michigan Member National Republican Committee Gives Figures Speculating on Next Election.

Detroit, Aug. 5—Political prognosticators of all party affiliations are very busy these days in making forecasts. Democrats profess to obtain great comfort over the report that in some states the Progressives are apparently not presenting a united front against Democracy. Indeed, some are sanguine enough to predict that they will obtain enough support from the Progressive voters which, added to the normal Democratic vote, will insure the election of Wilson.

This contention is, however, floated by careful students of the political situation who, by virtue of their experience and connection with the inside and intimate workings of campaigns, are competent to judge. Charles B. Warren, member of the Republican National Committee from Michigan, in an interesting talk has given a valuable and comprehensive synopsis of the situation as it is at present, based on the Progressive vote of past campaigns.

"While estimates are not altogether convincing," said Mr. Warren, "they are valuable as indicating the tendency toward one candidate or another as regards the party preference of the mass of individuals. In twenty-seven states which gave Wilson two hundred and eighty-three electoral votes in 1912 the combined Taft and Roosevelt votes in that year exceeded the vote cast for Wilson. In fifteen of these states Roosevelt's vote was greater than that of Taft, and in twelve Taft's was larger than Roosevelt's. Had the combined Roosevelt and Taft votes been cast for one candidate, that candidate would have received 279 electoral votes to Wilson's 152—the 152 coming almost entirely from the solid South. Wilson's total vote in 1912 was 6,128,054, while the combined Taft-Roosevelt vote was 7,604,518—a difference of 1,476,464 in favor of the two Republican candidates.

The vote of the twenty-seven states which went to Wilson only by Republican division was as follows:

"In the twenty-three states carried by the Republicans the Republican plurality over the Democratic vote was more than one million. In 1912 the Wilson vote in the same states was larger than the Taft vote by about as much. Of the total votes cast by the three parties in these states in 1914 the Republicans cast 49.6 per cent, the Democrats 38.9 percent, and the Progressives 11.5 percent. In 1912 the Presidential vote was: Republicans, 28.4 percent; Democrats, 39.7 percent; Progressives, 31.4 percent.

"So, taking in consideration the total strength of the voters among Republicans, Democrats and Progressives, based on past performances, and not taking in consideration some of the elements that will work to the advantage of the Republican party this year, it is perfectly evident that, even if the Republican party holds less than one-half of the Progressive support and receives only approximately its own normal strength the election of Hughes in 1914 will be successful.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS WILL BE MADE SAFE FOR TRAVEL

Chicago & Alton to Install Electric Bells at Dangerous Crossings Near Woodson.

As a result of a conference between road officials and residents of Woodson neighborhood and representatives of the Chicago & Alton railroad the Henry crossing south of Woodson is to be made safe. The crossing is located about one mile from Woodson and is one of the most dangerous in the county. Going south from the village one crosses the railroad on an angle and a rise. The topography of the land is such that the view of the track is almost completely screened. Then if one is traveling to Murrayville it is necessary to cross again a distance of between 200 and 300 feet. At the conference near the crossings M. J. Doolin, Fred Schofield and John Wilkinson were the highway commissioners and the railroad men included Supt. Titus and a number of other road officials. Mayor H. J. Rodgers was also present by invitation, as were W. J. Brady, Jay Rodgers and George Vassconcellos.

Several plans for improvement were suggested and it was agreed that two subways would be exceedingly expensive for the railroads and it was further agreed that safety for the public could be secured in some other way. One plan was to change the road so that only one crossing would be necessary. This idea, however, did not accord with the views of a number of residents of the neighborhood who attended the conference. The railroad officials signified their willingness to put in the bell system at both crossings and a majority of the residents present indicated that this improvement would be satisfactory. It is understood, therefore, that the Alton management will proceed at once to install the electric warning bells, which will cost about $1,500 or $1,600.

REPORTER AND PHOTOGRAPHIC PUT TO FLIGHT WITH SHOTGUN

William Spieth, formerly of Jacksonville, and Chicago Tribune Representative, Met Inc of Miss Hinterliter, of Olney

News of the Hinterliter case at Olney was given a local turn when it became known that William Spieth, brother of Otto Spieth, and proprietor of a photograph gallery in Olney was in a party, driven from the Hinterliter home by sister of Roy Hinterliter, the youth charged with the killing of Miss Radcliffe.

A dispatch to the Chicago Tribune tells how a visit of a woman reporter to the Olney home, precipitated the trouble.

"With her mother prostrated by the publicity caused by the arrest of Roy Hinterliter in connection with the death of Elizabeth Radcliffe, the endurance of Miss Myra Hinterliter snapped today when Miss Honor Fanning, a Chicago newspaper woman, visited the Hinterliter home and sought to have Mrs. Hinterliter pose for a picture.

"You needn't come down here for anything like that," Miss Hinterliter cried. "My mother is sick and I won't be annoyed by you people any more."

The reporter explained she sought to get justice for young Hinterliter.

"I don't care anything about him," declared Miss Hinterliter. "He got into trouble himself and he has only himself to blame."

Miss Hinterliter stood by the door as she talked. She reached inside and the visitors saw her hand on the barrel of a shotgun. They made a rush for the automobile. The party included Deputy Sheriff Fred Newton, Photographer William Spieth and Shermer Butler.

NEW BUICK RECORD BEGINS

From day to day during the fiscal "automobile" year which closed August 1, the sales of Buicks by Howard Zahn, local agent, have been recorded in the local press. Dating from August means 1917 automobile business and Mr. Zahn has announced as the first sale a 6 cylinder, 5 passenger Buick to Dave Giger of Arenzville, and No. 2 a 4 cylinder 5 passenger Buick to Dr. F. A. McCarty of West College avenue. The numbers are going to come rapidly this year so keep a close watch for the 100th car before the 1917 business closes.

The baby brick when announced by Merrigan's became immediately popular. You will find them today in all the popular flavors and the price is only 20c a brick. If you have never tried the baby brick, do so today.
